Measles remains one of the leading causes of death among young children globally.

Despite the availability of a safe and effective vaccine, an estimated 164,000 people worldwide died from measles in 2008—mostly children under the age of five.

No longer considered endemic in Australia but outbreaks continue to occur.

Cases imported from other countries remain an important source of infection.

Recent outbreaks have resulted in secondary hospital staff infections.

Measles is a serious viral illness that can result in:
— pneumonia
— encephalitis
— middle ear infections
— subacute sclerosing panencephalitis (SSPE)

Transmission
Airborne (respiratory spread)
Must be managed with transmission based (airborne) precautions as per Queensland Health Infection Control Guidelines

Prevention
The best protection is vaccination. Two doses of measles vaccine are required at least one month apart.

Notifiable
Measles must be notified to Public Health Units on clinical suspicion (Public Health Act and Regulation 2005).
