

The Minister for Health is responsible for wide ranging statutory authorities. Collectively their roles are important to the delivery and regulation of health services in Queensland.

In addition, district health councils have a direct input into decisions that affect health service delivery in each of the 38 health service districts across the State, with each council required to annually present a report to the Minister.

Hospital foundations

Adjudicative/review boards

Professional Conduct Review Panel

This panel is established under the Health Practitioners (Professional Standards) Act 1999 to discipline health practitioners. The purpose is to: protect the public, uphold standards of practice within the health professions and maintain public confidence in the health professions.

Health Practitioners Tribunal

This panel handles the most serious disciplinary matters concerning health practitioners.

Mental Health Tribunal

The Mental Health Tribunal hears and determines all proceedings duly instituted before it under the Mental Health Act 1974. The tribunal determines questions of criminal responsibility, diminished responsibility, fitness to plead and fitness to be tried of persons involved in criminal proceedings, and hear and determine appeals from matters of a Patient Review Tribunal.

Patient Review Tribunals

The function of each of the five tribunals (the State is divided into regions as provided in section 14(1) of the Mental Health Act 1974) is to deal with applications and references by and in respect of patients under the provisions of the Act.

Professional Conduct CommitteeChairperson:*

The functions of the council is to examine, and make recommendations to the Minister about: the operation and application of the Radiation Safety Act; proposed amendments thereof; radiation safety standards; issues relating to radiation; research into radiation practices carried out, and the transport of radioactive materials in the State.

Health Rights CommissionCommissioner:*

Mr Ian Staib

To provide for independent review and conciliation with respect to services provided by health service providers to health service users and for improvement to those services.

Health Rights Advisory CouncilPresident:*

Mr Pat Nolan

Functions include advising the Minister on grievances relating to health services and the general operation of the Health Rights Commission, and any related matter on which the Minister requests advice. The council also advises the Health Rights Commissioner in relation to the redress of health service complaints.

District Health Councils

Queensland Health's District Health Councils were established under section 4 of the Health Services Act 1991. The 38 councils provide the following functions:

- identify and assess the health service needs of people living in the council's district
- participate in the development of strategic plans for the district
- monitor compliance with strategic plans, health service agreements and budgets by the district manager
- monitor the quality of public sector health services delivered in the district
- decide priorities for minor capital works
- monitor programs for the district's works and asset management
- advise the manager on the development of health service agreements for the district
- report to the Minister on the performance of the council's functions under the Act.
