Reporting a Reasonable/ Reportable Suspicion of Child Abuse and Neglect

1. Purpose
This Guideline provides consistency and best practice for reporting in relation to formulation of a reportable / reasonable suspicion of child harm.

2. Scope
This Guideline provides information for all employees, contractors and consultants within Queensland Health and Hospital and Health Services (HHS).

3. Related documents

4. Mandatory reporting

4.1 Who is a mandatory reporter?
4.1.1 Section 13E (1) of the Child Protection Act 1999 provides that a doctor and a registered nurse are mandatory reporters. (Refer to definition of register nurse)

4.2 A reportable suspicion
4.2.1 A reportable suspicion is defined at s13E(2) of the Child Protection Act 1999 as a reasonable suspicion that a child has suffered, is suffering, or is at unacceptable risk of suffering, significant harm caused by physical or sexual abuse; and may not have a parent able and willing to protect them from harm.

4.2.2 Section 13E(3) of the Child Protection Act 1999 provides that a doctor or a registered nurse must give a written report to the Department of Communities Child Safety and Disability Services (Child Safety Services) if that person forms a ‘reportable suspicion’ in the course of their employment.

4.2.3 Under s13G(2) of the Child Protection Act 1999, this written report must contain the following details:

   a) state the basis on which the person has formed the reportable suspicion; and

   b) include the information prescribed by regulation, to the extent of the person’s knowledge.

4.2.4 Mandatory reporters should still report to Child Safety Services a reasonable suspicion that a child or unborn child may be in need of protection where the harm or risk of harm relates to any other type of abuse or neglect under s13A of the Child Protection Act 1999.

5. Non mandatory reporting

5.1 A reasonable suspicion

5.1.1 Any Queensland Health or HHS staff member should inform Child Safety Services in accordance with s13A of the Child Protection Act 1999 where the staff member reasonably suspects:

   a) a child may be in need of protection; or

   b) an unborn child may be in need of protection after he or she is born.

5.1.2 The information given under s13A of the Child Protection Act 1999 may include anything the person considers relevant to the person’s suspicion.

5.1.3 The reporting under this Guideline relates only to reasonable suspicions that staff have formed in the course of their professional practice.
6. Considerations when forming a reasonable suspicion

6.1 Considerations for identifying significant harm

6.1.1 Section 13C of the Child Protection Act 1999 provides matters which the staff member may consider in forming a ‘reasonable suspicion’ about significant harm:

- whether there are detrimental effects on the child’s body or the child’s psychological or emotional state that are evident or likely to become evident in the future
- the nature and severity of the detrimental effects
- the likelihood that the detrimental effects will continue
- the child’s age

6.1.2 Staff shall use their professional judgement to form a reasonable suspicion regarding harm to children. In forming a reasonable suspicion, staff members may consult with a senior staff member, child protection liaison officer or child protection advisor. Section 13H of the Child Protection Act 1999 provides for staff to consult with another health professional to assist in the formulation of a reasonable suspicion of child harm.

6.1 Determining parent able and willing

6.2.1 In determining whether a child may not have a parent able and willing to protect them from harm, staff members should consider:

- a parent may be willing to protect a child, but not have the capacity to do so - that is they are unable to protect the child from harm
- a parent may have the capacity to protect a child, that is they are able to protect the child from harm, but may choose not to do so – that is, they are unwilling to protect the child from harm.

7. Unborn child

7.1 Reporting an unborn child

7.1.1 It is not mandatory for staff (including doctors, registered nurses and other health professionals) to report child protection concerns relating to an unborn child. This does not constrain staff from reporting their concerns.
about the potential risk of harm to a child following their birth to Child Safety Services.

7.1.2 If staff do report such concerns then they are protected from liability under s197A of the Child Protection Act 1999 provided they acted honestly in making that report.

8. Sexual activity in a young person

8.1 Reporting regarding sexual activity relevant to a young person

8.1.1 A staff member on becoming aware of sexual activity in a young person may report the sexual activity to Child Safety Services on the basis of this activity being considered to have reached the threshold of significant harm, if they reasonably suspect the sexual activity:

- is non-consensual and/or
- occurs between family members and/or
- is not fully comprehended by the young person and/or
- constitutes a significant age gap (five years or more) between the young person and partner and/or
- suggests an inappropriate power differential and/or
- involves coercion to engage in any unlawful sexual activity, including prostitution and/or
- exposes them to, or uses them in pornographic performances or material.

8.1.2 There will be circumstances when the criteria listed above may not be met, but staff are concerned the young person may still be at risk of significant harm. The absence of specific indicators is not intended to restrict reporting concerns to Child Safety Services.

8.1.3 Specific consideration must be given to the age of the child as well as the presence of developmental (especially intellectual) delays and or disabilities which may reduce the young person’s ability to identify, report and/or consent to the sexual activity.

8.1.4 Staff should undertake an appropriate assessment of the young person and document the basis for their decision making in relation to the sexual activity.
9. Reporting a reasonable / reportable suspicion

9.1 Making a report to Child Safety Services

9.1.1 When a staff member forms a reasonable/reportable suspicion, this staff member should:

- immediately report their concerns in writing to an authorised officer of Child Safety Services Regional Intake Service (CSS-RIS) or Child Safety After Hours Service (CSAHS)
- using a ‘Report of suspected child in need of protection’ form.
- it is recommended that you telephone CSS-RIS or CSAHS and document the date, time and name of the person you spoke to in the client’s record.

9.1.2 The staff member submitting the report electronically should:

- print and file the report in the client’s record
- forward a copy of the form to their Hospital and Health Service (HHS) Child Protection Liaison Officer (CPLO).

9.1.3 The staff member submitting a paper copy of the Report of suspected child in need of protection form should:

- fax or email the form to CSS-RIS or CSAHS
- file the original form in the client’s record
- forward a copy of the form to their HHS CPLO.

9.1.4 If you are unable to access the ‘Report of suspected child in need of protection’ form you must provide a written report to CSS-RIS or CSAHS including details of the child, nature of the harm and contact details of the person making the report.

9.1.5 A staff member who has made a report of reasonable/reportable suspicion to Child Safety Services shall comply with any request by Child Safety Services for further information in relation to the report.

9.1.6 Staff are protected from liability under s13D of the Child Protection Act 1999 for giving information to Child Safety Services in the context of making a report.
10. Documentation

10.1 Documentation of your actions and conversations

10.1.1 The staff member who has formed a reasonable/reportable suspicion should file the written report form, or document, in the individual's clinical record:

- the abuse type or harm;
- the cause of the harm or identified risk factors;
- the degree or significance of the harm; and
- if known, who may have caused the harm.
