Message from the Director-General

I am proud to present the Queensland Health and Queensland Ambulance Service 2021-2022 Annual Report and the completion of our agency's commitments under the 2019-20 to 2021-2022 Multicultural Action Plan.

Queensland Health and Queensland Ambulance Services proudly share in the Queensland Government's vision for an inclusive, harmonious and united Queensland where people of all cultures, languages and faiths feel a strong sense of belonging and are supported to achieve the best possible health and wellbeing outcomes.

I would like to acknowledge that while many actions have been marked as complete for the purposes of reporting on the Multicultural Action Plan, work continues across our Hospital and Health Services and Department of Health every day to further the objects of Queensland's Multicultural Policy and respond to the needs of Queensland's culturally and linguistically diverse (CALD) communities.

The 2021-2022 year presented challenges for Queensland Health, including managing of Queensland's first widespread outbreaks of COVID-19. Throughout the management of the vaccine rollout and pandemic response we have sought to ensure Queensland's CALD communities were engaged with culturally appropriate health services and information.

During the pandemic Queensland Health adapted to new ways of partnering with our CALD communities and CALD community leaders in the codesign of policies and programs that affect them. We strive to continue this legacy of collaboration to improve the accessibility of the health system and deliver targeted health strategies that support health and mental health outcomes for CALD communities.

Queensland Health's vision for a more equitable and accessible health system is reflected in our commitments under the new Multicultural Action Plan 2022 to 2024 and the anticipated launch of Queensland Health's Refugee Health and Wellbeing Policy and Action Plan 2022- 2027, and Queensland's first Transcultural Mental Health Centre Action Plan 2021-2026.

I look forward to working alongside my colleagues to ensuring Queensland Health supports inclusive, harmonious and healthy communities across Queensland.

Shaun Drummond
Director-General

Policy context

In 2016, the Honourable Grace Grace MP, former Minister for Employment, Minister for industrial Relations, Minister for Racing and Minister for Multicultural Affairs released Our story, our future: Queensland's Multicultural Policy (the Policy), promoting an inclusive, harmonious and united community for Queensland.

The Policy focuses Queensland Government action on three policy priorities for culturally diverse communities and Queensland as a whole – achieving culturally responsive government; supporting inclusive, harmonious and united communities; and improving economic opportunities

This Annual Report response to the second Multicultural Action Plan released under Multicultural Recognition Act 2016 (the Act). It builds on outcomes achieved under the first Multicultural Action Plan and will continue to drive Queensland Government actions to support an environment of opportunity and achieve improved social and economic outcomes for people from culturally diverse backgrounds.

The Policy and Action Plan are a requirement of the Act and represent one of three key provisions of the Act, together with establishment of the Multicultural Queensland Charter and Multicultural Queensland Advisory Council. Section 24 of the Act requires government agencies with actions in the Plan to report publicly on an annual basis.

Highlights for 2021-22

- The continued implementation of a targeted COVID-19 pandemic engagement response for CALD communities to improve health literacy and reduce barriers to testing, vaccination and public information. This includes the extension and state-wide expansion of the Refugee Health Network Queensland CALD COVID-19 Health Engagement Project.
- Launch of the Queensland Transcultural Mental Health Centre Action Plan 2021-2026, guiding actions to deliver culturally responsive mental health care for people from CALD backgrounds
- Launch of Making Tracks Together: Queensland's Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Health Equity Framework (2021).
- Enabling free public healthcare to new humanitarian arrivals without access to Medicare, including the establishment of emergency health responses for Ukrainian and Afghan arrivals.
- Completion interim findings for the CALD Health Data Project to improve understanding of health system use and outcomes for people from CALD communities.

² The QPS collects information for legitimate law enforcement purposes only and cannot collect or disclose customer information as outlined in the Queensland Multicultural Policy: Our story, our future. QPS officers across the state have access to the QPS Annual Environmental Scan which details cultural diversity trends in the community and which assists with QPS internal planning to address the needs of the whole community.

Highlight 1 - Metro North Health Ophthalmology Video Interpreting Pilot

COVID had a major impact on public health care in a hospital setting. Providing a suitable interpreter service for CALD patients and consumers is an essential service in ensuring all Queenslanders have access to appropriate health care. With the onset of COVID and the introduction of changing environment and safety requirements (including vaccination mandates, social distances, PPE requirements), booking onsite interpreters became increasingly difficult.

The Ophthalmology unit of the Royal Brisbane and Women’s Hospital provides care to a diverse range of patients. In 2021 the unit booked 836 interpreters (over 3 interpreters per working day) through predominantly onsite face to face interpreting. The advent of COVID presented challenges for consumers who did not use English as their preferred language.

Most interpreters are provided on site and face to face. When face to face interpretation is not viable, historically phone interpreters have been used in lieu of a face-to-face interpreter. This model risked creating disjointed appointments due to the phone interpreter lacking the context of what was occurring in the room. The complex patient flow of an ophthalmology appointment meant it was difficult for the patient to have a telephone interpreter available to support them throughout the entire lengthy appointment. If an interpreter was unavailable, patients often needed to have their appointments rescheduled to a time when an interpreter was available. This sometimes risked the optimal model of care.

In November 2021 the unit commenced the Virtual Interpreter Service trial which was then implemented as a preferred service model in 2022. The adoption of telehealth and Microsoft Teams provided clinicians and patients/consumers with increased access to interpreters without compromising COVID requirements.

A range of benefits were experienced through the provision of interpreters through video conference platforms to patients suggesting that the greater accessibility of interpreters through either Telehealth or Microsoft Teams video conferencing platforms can facilitate monetary, social and intangible gains. Significantly the virtual interpreter model has led to less patient treatment reschedules due to increased interpreter accessibility.

Highlight 2 - Metro South Health Healthy New Communities Program

The Healthy New Communities Program funded by the Logan Community Health Action Plan (CHAP) is being implemented by Metro South HHS to improve health outcomes of refugee communities in Logan in relation to healthy weight, healthy eating, and physical activity.

The team works in partnership with local community organisations and groups, business, and council. They use a setting approach to facilitate delivery of local healthy weight promotion interventions. Interventions focus on physical activity programs, nutrition promotion and education and community gardens.

It now has four trained facilitators and runs monthly training sessions. • Gold Coast HHS also has an accredited Courageous Conversations about Race Program facilitator and runs monthly education sessions. • During the COVID-19 period, the Department worked closely with the Queensland Human Rights Commission on COVID-19 related racial vilification experienced by CALD communities.

Highlight 3 - Making Tracks Together: Queensland's Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Health Equity Framework

Recent legislative amendments and release of Making Tracks Together: Queensland's Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Health Equity Framework (2021) has placed First Nations peoples at the centre of healthcare service design and delivery. The legislative amendments require each Hospital and Health Board to appoint at least one Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander person to their governing board, and to design and implement a Health Equity Strategy in partnership with prescribed First Nations stakeholders. These stakeholders include Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander consumers, community members, workforces, community-controlled health organisations and Native Title holders. Each Health Equity Strategy is required to include strategies to:

- Actively eliminate racial discrimination and institutional racism within the service
- Increase access to healthcare services
- Influence the social, cultural and economic determinants of health
- Increase First Nations workforce proportionate to the First Nations population they service
- Deliver sustainable, culturally safe and responsible healthcare services, and
- Work with First Nations peoples, communities and organisations to design, deliver, monitor and review health services.

Each Health Equity Strategy must include strategies on elimination of racial discrimination and increase access to healthcare services. Each framework must also include actions detailing how HHSs will increase workforce representation of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples across all health professions and employment streams proportionate to the communities they serve.
