Nitrous Oxide (laughing gas) recovery
Information for children

Your child has been given nitrous oxide as a sedative during his/her dental treatment today.

It may cause your child to:
• Feel nauseous or vomit
• Be sleepy or less aware
• Be unsteady or lose his/her balance
• Not think clearly
• Have a headache.

This is normal. If the symptoms persist or if you have any concerns about your child’s recovery please seek medical advice or contact Caloundra Health Service Dental Clinic on 5436 8801.
