Contact List

Throughout Healthy Jarjums, there are suggestions to include Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander people as guest speakers. This can enrich the program and contribute to embedding Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander perspectives during the delivery of this module. (See p 7 for suggestions about linking with Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander people)

Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Health Workers and Nutritionists may be able to support you when presenting the Healthy Jarjums program to your class.

To locate an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander Health Worker or Nutritionist, make contact through a Queensland Health service or an Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander community controlled health service near your school.

Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander community controlled health services can be located via the Queensland Aboriginal and Islander Health Council (QAIHC) website, which has links to services throughout Queensland:
