

QG Breakfast Series

6 August 2019 event - transcript

Interviews with attendees – post-event thoughts

MALE: Probably how we can use AI. Actually making the next step to jumping into the AI platform is probably the big one.

FEMALE: I just thought it was really interesting. I thought it was really cool to delve into technology and labour and the fact that you know we can work together really effectively, that it's not too much of like a terrifying experience, that it's going to be something that's going to be exciting and new and that we can really work with it to embrace it and create new jobs.

FEMALE: I think it was really thought-provoking. I especially really liked seeing those reports. I'll definitely go and check them out. I'm in HR so it'll be a lot of taking back to the team and seeing how we can partner with other parts of our business to implement change.

FEMALE: Nasa from RTA is a fabulous speaker. She is just brilliant. And she was very inspiring. I really enjoyed it.

FEMALE: I was actually looking for Fiona to go and thank her, because I got a lot from her. Especially her video that she showed. I hope somewhere we can get some of those key messages out to more people.

FEMALE: Technology is a fabulous thing and yeah I'd like to use it more in my job now after seeing the capabilities, so yeah.

FEMALE: Just a great comment to start a conversation and get people thinking. I'm hoping I can take the fizz from this breakfast into my day and spread it to some other people.

FEMALE: We really should embrace technology. And it is good for the workplace.

MALE: I'd say that we need to embrace the change, and that is the way of the future.
