Share your ideas and help improve health services in Nambour

Nambour and Hinterland residents, here’s your chance to have your say, be involved in and share your ideas for improvement in the way public healthcare is delivered in your community.

Sunshine Coast Hospital and Health Service (SCHHS) is seeking expressions of interest for patients, family members and carers to join the Nambour General Hospital Consumer and Community Engagement Council as a consumer representative.

Graham Wilkinson, Director of Nursing/ Facility Manager Nambour General Hospital, said the health service is committed to working with our community to better understand their needs and hear suggestions on how we can improve our health services.

“We are actively seeking expressions of interest from consumers, carers and community members who want to be involved in the planning, design, delivery and evaluation of Nambour General Hospital and the way we deliver our services,” Mr Wilkinson said.

“Our consumer representatives currently participate in our management committees, in the evaluation of patient care and in our community based activities with the objective to improve health literacy and access to services.

“This is a real opportunity to participate and make a difference,” he said.

Consumer representatives will be offered education, orientation and support to enable them to be effective consumer representatives – as detailed in the EOI accompanying this release.
