

Queensland Border Declaration Pass

In response to the COVID-19 pandemic, entry to Queensland is temporarily restricted by the Chief Health Officer under the **Border Restrictions Direction**.

You are only allowed to enter Queensland if you are an exempt person or have been granted an exemption from Queensland's Chief Health Officer AND you have a Queensland Border Declaration Pass.

Freight transport drivers are not required to complete the Queensland Border Declaration Pass.

A separate declaration pass is required for each individual, including children, and all travelers in your party must be eligible to enter Queensland. If an individual seeking to enter Queensland is a child or a person with impaired capacity, a parent or guardian may complete this form on behalf of the person.

Once your Queensland Border Declaration Pass is approved you will need to enter Queensland within 7 days. If you don't you will need to apply for a new Queensland Border Declaration Pass.

*Please note, access to remote communities is currently restricted by the Chief Health Officer. A separate Communities Entry Pass is required for travel to a designated area (remote communities). You will need both a Queensland Entry Pass AND **Communities Entry Pass** if your travel involves both a border crossing and entry to a designated area.*
